TRAINING AND DIALOGUE PROGRAMS

GENERAL INFORMATION ON

Empowerment of Rural women (A)

集団研修「農村女性能力向上 (A)」

JFY 2011

<Type: Solution Creation / 類型: 課題解決促進型>

NO. J11-00640 / ID. 1180889

From April 2011 to November 2011

Phases in Japan: From May 22, 2011 to August 6, 2011

This information pertains to one of the Training and Dialogue Programs of the Japan International Cooperation Agency (JICA), which shall be implemented as part of the Official Development Assistance of the Government of Japan based on bilateral agreement between both Governments.

I. Concept

Background

In developing countries, rural women play a vital role in agriculture, daily reproductive tasks and income generating activities etc. However, it is the reality that less value is given to their contributions, and rural women are less likely to realize their capacity to make a life better for themselves, families and communities. In these conditions, rural women remain inactive with less chance to development of their abilities. In order to improve the situation, practical means for empowering rural women is widely required.

For what?

Under these circumstances, the group training course on “Empowerment of Rural Women” is designed to provide innovative knowledge and practical skills on empowerment of rural women reflecting good practices of Japan. In particular, “Life Improvement Approach” (LIA), which has fostered rural women to take autonomous group action, utilizing locally existing resources for better life, is highlighted as a major topic. Besides, the course covers rural women’s economic, social and environmental practices, such as entrepreneurship and environmentally friendly activities developed from the LIA and gender equality society which is the basis of the prosperity of Japan.

How?

The course is consisted of three (3) programs as shown below.

(1) Preparatory Program

- The Participant is involved in self-study including a baseline survey by following the “Guidance on Preparatory Program”.

(2) Training Program in Japan

- The Participant learns good practices on empowerment of rural women in Japan through lectures, discussions, workshops and study trips etc.
- The Participant formulates the draft Life Improvement Action Plan (LIAP) which is used as a tool to solve the problems of rural women in her/his country.

(3) Post Program,

- The Participant proceeds to finalize the LIAP by getting advice through e-mail and a web site of the training course*

*It is a useful tool to provide all information related to the course, such as learning materials, study trip information, action plans of ex-participants, photos and results of ex-participant’s performance etc.

For Your Reference

JICA and Capacity Development

The key concept underpinning JICA operations since its establishment in 1974 has been the conviction that “capacity development” is central to the socioeconomic development of any country, regardless of the specific operational scheme one may be undertaking, i.e. expert assignments, development projects, development study projects, training programs, JOCV programs, etc.

Within this wide range of programs, Training Programs have long occupied an important place in JICA operations. Conducted in Japan, they provide partner countries with opportunities to acquire practical knowledge accumulated in Japanese society. Participants dispatched by partner countries might find useful knowledge and re-create their own knowledge for enhancement of their own capacity or that of the organization and society to which they belong.

About 460 pre-organized programs cover a wide range of professional fields, ranging from education, health, infrastructure, energy, trade and finance, to agriculture, rural development, gender mainstreaming, and environmental protection. A variety of programs and are being customized to address the specific needs of different target organizations, such as policy-making organizations, service provision organizations, as well as research and academic institutions. Some programs are organized to target a certain group of countries with similar developmental challenges.

Japanese Development Experience

Japan was the first non-Western country to successfully modernize its society and industrialize its economy. At the core of this process, which started more than 140 years ago, was the “adopt and adapt” concept by which a wide range of appropriate skills and knowledge have been imported from developed countries; these skills and knowledge have been adapted and/or improved using local skills, knowledge and initiatives. They finally became internalized in Japanese society to suit its local needs and conditions.

From engineering technology to production management methods, most of the know-how that has enabled Japan to become what it is today has emanated from this “adoption and adaptation” process, which, of course, has been accompanied by countless failures and errors behind the success stories. We presume that such experiences, both successful and unsuccessful, will be useful to our partners who are trying to address the challenges currently faced by developing countries.

However, it is rather challenging to share with our partners this whole body of Japan’s developmental experience. This difficulty has to do, in part, with the challenge of explaining a body of “tacit knowledge,” a type of knowledge that cannot fully be expressed in words or numbers. Adding to this difficulty are the social and cultural systems of Japan that vastly differ from those of other Western industrialized countries, and hence still remain unfamiliar to many partner countries. Simply stated, coming to Japan might be one way of overcoming such a cultural gap.

JICA, therefore, would like to invite as many leaders of partner countries as possible to come and visit us, to mingle with the Japanese people, and witness the advantages as well as the disadvantages of Japanese systems, so that integration of their findings might help them reach their developmental objectives.
